ELOQUENT PLEA FOR WORLD PEACE

Rabbi Calisch Commemorates Anniversary of the Hague Conference,

APPROPRIATE FROM HEBREW

War is the Mark of the Savage Peace of Spiritual Development.

In celebration of the anniversary of the Peace Conference at The Hague, Rabbi E. N. Calisch last night, in his regular Friday night services, delivered a most beautiful and touching appeal for worldwide peace, saying that it came most appropriately from a Hebrew pulpit from the fact that peace had so often been the lesson taught the ancient Hebrews by their prophets. The address was an elequent appeal and a fine tribute to the sacred cause.

Mr. Calisch spoke in part as follows:

This day is the anniversary of the

Mr. Calisch spoke in part as follows:
This day is the anniversary of the Peace Conference at The Hague, The Jewish Woman's Council of America, in connection with other national and international peace associations, is trying to promulgate the idea of peace, and to educate humanity to an appreciation of the blessing of peace and the value of arbitration as a substitute for war. In looking at the condition of things it will be seen how much room there is for such agitation. Within the last quarters of a century the greatest nations in the world agitation. Within the last quarters of a century the greatest nations in the world have been at war. England and America closed the last century each with a war. Russia and Japan began this century with one of the bloodiest and most fearful wars known to human history. Germany to-day is pegging away at some African tribes. Italy had its recent conflict with the Abyssianians, and, incidentally, our own Morors, Dattos and Filipinos generally are not all "benevolently assimilated."

Intly assimilated."

It is appropriate that this plea of peace should come from a Jewish pulpit. Hillel taught: "Be ye of the disciples of Aaron, loving peace and pursuing peace," Isafah (chapter II, verse 4) gave expression to the milienial hope when he said "that nations will beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning knives, and know war no more," and this sentiment was reiterated by Mican. The fulfillment of it will realize man's highest spiritual development.

Dawn of Progress.

Dawn of Progress.

Dawn of Progress.

War is the mark of the savage within us. As long as we tolerate warfare we are but slightly removed from our fordawn of the club and the cave. The dawn of human progress began when the blackness of the night of the sovereignty of the savage was broken by the light of justice and truth. There have, been wars of conquest, wars for religion, civil wars and wars because of national disputes.

wars and wars because of national diswars of conquest are about done. The sense of right and of justice has so far advanced that wanton theft or the utter disregard of the rights or territory of even the weakest nation by the most powerful will not be tolerated by the sentiment of the world. Nor indeed will it tolerate the forcible imposition of religious belief.

Power of the Hague.

Power of the Hague.

But wars still go on because of national disputes. And it is this for which the Hague Tribunal is suggested. It is the supreme court of the world, the court of final appeal of civilized humanity. But it has no punitive power. It cannot enforce us decrees. If a nation, submitting its claims, is dissatisfied with the award, and will not heed it, there is no power in the tribunal that can hold it. I mean no physical power.

There is a power, however, the moral power of the public sentiment of the world. The deterrent influence of the universal condemnation of the human race is a thing too great to be flaunted. It is greater than navies and argies. It is a fair inference that when once a dispute between nations is submitted to the Tribunal there will be no war. How excellent a thing then to turn the world's attention to the thought of arbitration as a substitute for settling strife. Oh, the wounds and agony and pain that will be spared; the widows' tears unshed and the orphans' cries unheard. Then, too, would the immense standing armies be disbanded and the clossal navies be diminished, and hundreds of thousands of men, who in the years of their greatest productive capacity, are now maintained in idleness at the terrible cost of toiling peasants and industrial workers and trained for the art of murder, would be set free to till the earth, and drive the wheels of industry and commerce.

Settlement of Coal Strike, What an excellent thing was the p

What an excellent thing was the peace-ful settlement of the coal strike. How much more when not merely a single industry, but the whole industrial fabric of a people, when not merely a small proportion, but the very life and fortune of the whole nation itself are involed, and can be saved by the resort to arbi-tration. Then, indeed, shall humanity re-deem liest by its own nobility.

deem itself by its own nobility.
Warfare is to humanity what phiebotomy was to the practice of medicine two hundred years ago. When whatever alled hundred years ago. When whatever alled leeched him and took from him the very leeched him, and abow from him the very vital stream of life. But the science of medicine has advanced so that to-day its highest skill and greatest glory are not so much to heal as to prevent, to ward off and avoid disease. So, too, the highest development of international relations will be to prevent carnage and bloodshed, to ward off conflicts. Then will the prophet's words be realized, and, too, the beautiful words of Tennyson:

Then (shall) Universal Peace

Dike a shaft of light across the land, and like a lane of beams athwart the sea,

Through all the circle of the golden

"CUTICURA TREATMENT IS A BLESSING"

"At all times and to all people I am willing to testify to the merits of Cuticura. It saved me from worse than the tortures of hades, about the year 1900, with itching on my scalp and temples, and afterwards it commenced to break out on my lambs. I was advised to use salt and water, which I did, to no effect. I then went to a Surgeon, who commenced treating me with a wash of borax. This treatment did me no good, but rather aggravated the disease. I then told him I would go and see a physician in Eric. The reply was that I could go anywhere, but a case of eczema like mine could not be cured; that I was too old (80). I went to an eminent doctor in the city of Eric and treated with him for six months, with like results. I had read of the Cuticura Remedies often. I was strongly tempted to give them a trial, so I sent for the Cuticura Sap, Ointment, and Resolvent and continued taking the Resolvent until I had taken six bottles, stopping it to take the Pills. I was now getting better. I took two baths a day, and at night I let the lather of the Soap dry on. I used the Ointment with great effect after washing in warm water, to stop the itching at once. I am now cured.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
ALEXANDRIA, VA., May 18.—The tenth annual service of the Daughters of the King was held at 9:30 o'clock in St. Paul's Church, the celebrant being Rev. P. P. Phillips, the rector of the church. Immediately after the conclusion of this service the council was callsion of this service the council was called to order.

Rev. Dr. Angus Crawford, of the Theological Seminary, the chairman of the Committee on Increase of the Ministry, reported that it was necessary to give financial aid to many of the students at the seminary and that this money came from the Educational Society. The funds in the hands of the society, he said, were not adequate to the proper maintenance of these students, and unless more money was forthcoming the appropriation for these students would have to be curtailed. He, therefore, recommended that a special committee be appointed to solicit funds from the various churches from the diocese. The fact that so few young men were presenting themselves for ministerial orders he attributed to the spirit of commercialism of the present time.

Rev. William H. Laird, the rector of St. James Church, Warrenton, Va., offered a resolution inviting the council to hold its next annual session at his church. The report of a special committee ap-

Judge J. M. White was called to the chair by Bishop Gibson, so that the council might go into a committee of the whole house to pass upon the remaining canons.

Canon fifteen, which relates to the manner of electing and organizing vestries, was the first considered. Rev. Harry B. Lee, of Charlottesville, moved that section five of that canon should be so amended that instead of the words "Only male persons shall be eligible to the office of vestrymen," the words "Only baptized persons shall be eligible to the office of vestrymen." Rev. Robert K. Massle, the of vestrymen," the words "Only baptized persons shall be eligible to the office of vestrymen." Rev. Robert K. Massie, the professor of canon law at the Theological Seminary, moved that instead of the above amendment, the office of vestrymen should be limited to communicants of the church. Those oppossed to Mr. Maskie's amendment urged that in the smaller country parishes such a law would practically break up the vestries, as in many of these there were often only two or three communicants. It was also said that often the vestry was the stepping-stone to communion, and numerous intances were cited which showed that many vestrymen who formerly were not communicants, had become such through the influence of the vestry.

Mr. Massie's amendment was defeated, whereupon Mr. Lee's was called for and passed by a vote of 51 to 18.

The remaining canons were passed, after which the report of the committee of the whole was adopted by the council.

The council then adjourned till 3 o'clock.

The report of the committee on the state of the church was read and showed a satisfactory condition of affairs. Rev. Dr. John Moncure, of Richmond, offered a resolution that the thanks of the council be extended to the rector and council be extended to the rector and vestry of St. Paul's church for the cordial manner in which they had entertained the council.

Bishop Gibson, as chairman of the committee on schools, reported that the committee and made the following recommittees.
